7 Cores Skills for Accessibility

Summary

Considering the role you play within Austin ISD, you can cultivate a more inclusive, accessible, and equitable community for everyone. We encourage you to gradually learn each of the 7 core skills.

Learn at Your Own Pace, Start Now

Accessibility is a shift in perception, not a check mark in a list. If you're leaving accessibility until the last step, you're making it much harder on yourself and the flexibility of your content. As you explore this site and learn more about digital accessibility, you may wonder what action you can take to create a more accessible environment for our Austin ISD communities. We recommend starting small by focusing on one core skill each week to integrate into your workflow. If you improve one skill every few weeks, your work is going to be much more accessible by the end of the year.

These core skills are not only a great place to start, but they will help cultivate a more inclusive, accessible, equitable world for members of the Austin ISD communities and beyond.

The seven core skills are:

1. Alternative text
2. Contrast
3. Headings
4. Links

5. Lists
6. Tables
7. Video and audio

If any of this information is completely new to you, that's okay! You're in the right place. You don't need to learn everything right away. The point of these skills is to give you somewhere to start. Whatever your role, start small, but start now!

Lawmakers vote to fund virtual learning programs (En español)
By Eduardo Villa
Austin ISD may soon recoup some of the funding that went toward operating its virtual learning program for students in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Families can still enroll in Austin ISD Dual Language program (En español)
Pre-K, Kindergarten, and first grade students can still enroll in Austin ISD's Spanish/English Dual Language programs for this school year.

Cases of water are available as refill stations are being installed (En español)
Austin ISD crews are replacing drinking fountains with water-bottle refilling stations across the district.
Why it matters: The filling stations are easier and more sanitary than traditional drinking fountains, which have been shut off since the start of the pandemic.

Stop by the coop, next to the PTA white house on Milton, to visit the hens or stop by the office (PTA box) to buy your fresh eggs to support the coop! Please contact the Coop Committee Chair for information and to volunteer.

Coop History:

2010 - The Becker Chicken Coop was founded by art teacher Sarah Clendenon and Aaron Vyvial. They built it in the summer of 2010 on campus in a gated yard near the south playground. The coop includes a hen house and run with an auto-water and feed set-up. The deep litter-method is used to keep the coop as odor-free as possible while creating compost for eager neighborhood gardeners.

2010/2011 - Fourteen hens and one rooster moved into their new shady home before the start of the school year. Buck Moore Feed Supply generously donated three years' worth of food for the flock.

Students at Becker were responsible for collecting eggs from the four built-in nesting boxes. They cleaned, packaged and sold the eggs to staff and community members. Teachers at Becker have found innovative ways to work the chickens and eggs into their science, math, art, music, and Green Classroom curriculums.

2014 (Spring) - The Becker Coop joined Austin's Early Childhood Coop Team. This has brought thousands of visitors from around
